Lawson Archer, Managing Director, Transglobal Express explains: "Over the years we have been approached by many accountancy firms looking to attract our custom. None have been able to match the rates Horner Downey offer, and although we have never moved I sincerely doubt any would match the service. We look forward to many more years to come."

Horner Downey's Managing Director Mark Williams added: "We enjoy working with Transglobal Express because they are an ambitious international company, with strong roots in the local community. Combining leading online and digital services, with a real sense of customer care and individual attention, it's no surprise the company has been hugely successful in the past few years.

"Growth and expansion can pose challenges for any firm, and it's in these times that a reliable, knowledgeable accountant is really important. An accountant who really understands the business can provide support, advice and consistency in an environment that is changing rapidly. "
